

The (mathematical) support

Nematrian website page: [MathematicalSupport, © Nematrian 2015]

The (mathematical) support of a function is the set of points where the function is not zero. The support of a (continuous) probability distribution is thus where the probability density function is non-zero.